

Naman Pandey

POSITIONING

A public workbench for sharp questions, practical systems, and conversations that turn into receipts.

The brand should feel finished enough to trust, but never polished into distance. It is builder energy with editorial taste: plain structure, strong type, one dangerous red.

PALETTE

PAPER #ECE8DF	WARM #F4F1EA
INK #111315	DEEP RED #9D0B13
BRASS #9A7A2F	LINE #C9C2B6

TYPE SYSTEM

IBM Plex Sans	Primary identity face. Huge headlines, page titles, section labels. Use 600-700 weight, tight tracking, confident line height.
IBM Plex Mono	Navigation, metadata, dates, tags, tiny system language. Uppercase with generous tracking.
Libre Baskerville	New secondary font. Use for essay pull quotes, intros, reflective notes, and taste-led moments where the brand needs warmth.

Plain first.

Clean structure, direct labels, no fake luxury.

Opinionated, not loud.

A thesis in the foreground, decoration in the back.

Receipts visible.

Dates, links, artifacts, numbers, public work.

USAGE RULES

- 01 Keep layouts gridded, quiet, and editorial. Let the type carry the room.
- 02 Use deep red as a signal, not wallpaper. One red moment per composition is enough.
- 03 Pair brown/brass with paper for archive energy; pair red with ink for media energy.
- 04 Copy should sound like: useful, restless, specific. Avoid guru-speak and soft-focus inspiration.
